

INDEPENDENTS

Survey includes: Feature films released to theaters by independent producer-distributors. Independents are neither members of the Motion Picture Association of America, like the majors, nor are they niche film labels of the majors' parent companies, the vertically-integrated media conglomerates. However, some "indies" are subsidiaries or financial dependents of larger companies, such as a cable company or hedge fund. Listed by year, by G/PG/PG-13 or R/NC-17 rating, alphabetically within groups. Movies with tobacco imagery are boldface.

INDEPENDENTS' 13-YEAR RECORD, 1999-2011

Note: DreamWorks, Lionsgate, Miramax, MGM and Weinstein are reported separately; other independents are grouped as "Other." DreamWorks was acquired by Viacom in 2006 but became independent again in 2008; its 2006-7 releases are reported in the Viacom studio survey. Disney spun off Miramax and its film library to Filmyard Holdings in 2010. Lionsgate bought Summit in January 2012.
